

Cotton: World Markets and Trade

China Captures Large Share Of World Stock Accumulation

World ending stocks for 2011/12 are forecast to see the largest single-year increase in 25 years as global production and demand respond to last year's record high prices. China will capture about 40 percent of the total increase in world stocks because of the government's decision to rebuild reserves. China's state reserve has purchased nearly 12 million bales of domestic cotton and has also purchased several million bales of foreign cotton. China's government has announced its intention to support farm prices by buying unlimited quantities of domestic cotton at a target price. However, it is unclear to what extent it intends to release cotton from the reserve later this season or supplement domestic supplies by allowing additional imports.

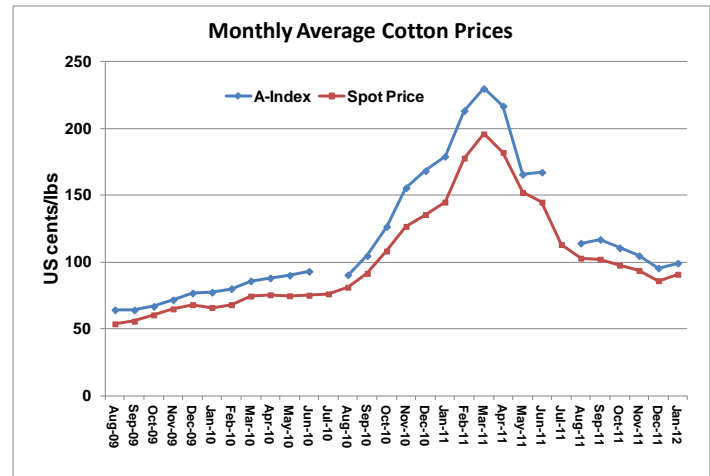

Much of the increase in world stocks outside of China will be held by exporters, as most importers, other than China, are seeking to minimize stocks in light of sluggish demand and little perceived risk of higher prices.

Overview

With world supply marginally lower, global consumption is reduced, resulting in higher ending stocks. Trade is largely unchanged. U.S. production is slightly lower and exports reduced by 300,000 bales. The season average price is unchanged.

Prices

The U.S spot price and the A-Index have recovered slightly after the year-end holidays. However, trading volume remains very low.

Trade Changes 2011/12

Major Exporters:

- United States is lowered 300,000 bales to 11.0 million on slightly smaller crop and strong competition from foreign exports.
- Brazil is increased 100,000 bales to 3.9 million on recent higher shipments.

Major Importers:

- China is increased by 500,000 bales to 16.0 million on continued government stock building.
- Thailand is decreased by 225,000 bales to 1.4 million as domestic use falls sharply.
- Pakistan is lowered by 100,000 bales to 1.3 million on a larger domestic crop.
- Indonesia is lowered by 100,000 bales to 1.9 million on sluggish domestic demand.
